

Trust in charities by province

Charities should be expected to deliver defunded programs

Charities generally improve our quality of life

Charities spend too much on salaries and administration

Charities are very good at spending money wisely

Charities are very good at helping people

Charities are better than government at meeting the needs of Canadians

Charities are better than government at understanding the needs of Canadians

Charities are important to Canadians

Do charities speak in the public interest or as an interest group?

Expected use of donations

Advocacy laws should be changed to permit charities to advocate more freely for their causes

Which should be responsible for watching over the activities of charities: the charity's board of directors, a government agency or an independent organization?

More attention should be paid to the way charities spend their money

More attention should be paid to the way that charities raise money

More attention should be paid to the amount of money charities spend on program activities

On each fundraising request, charities should be required to disclose how donors' contributions are spent?

Limit on fundraising costs

Charities are generally honest about the way they use donations

Too many charities are trying to get donations for the same cause

Charities only ask for money when they really need it

Charities spend too much money on fundraising

Charities should be able to earn money through any type of business activity they want as long as the proceeds go to their cause

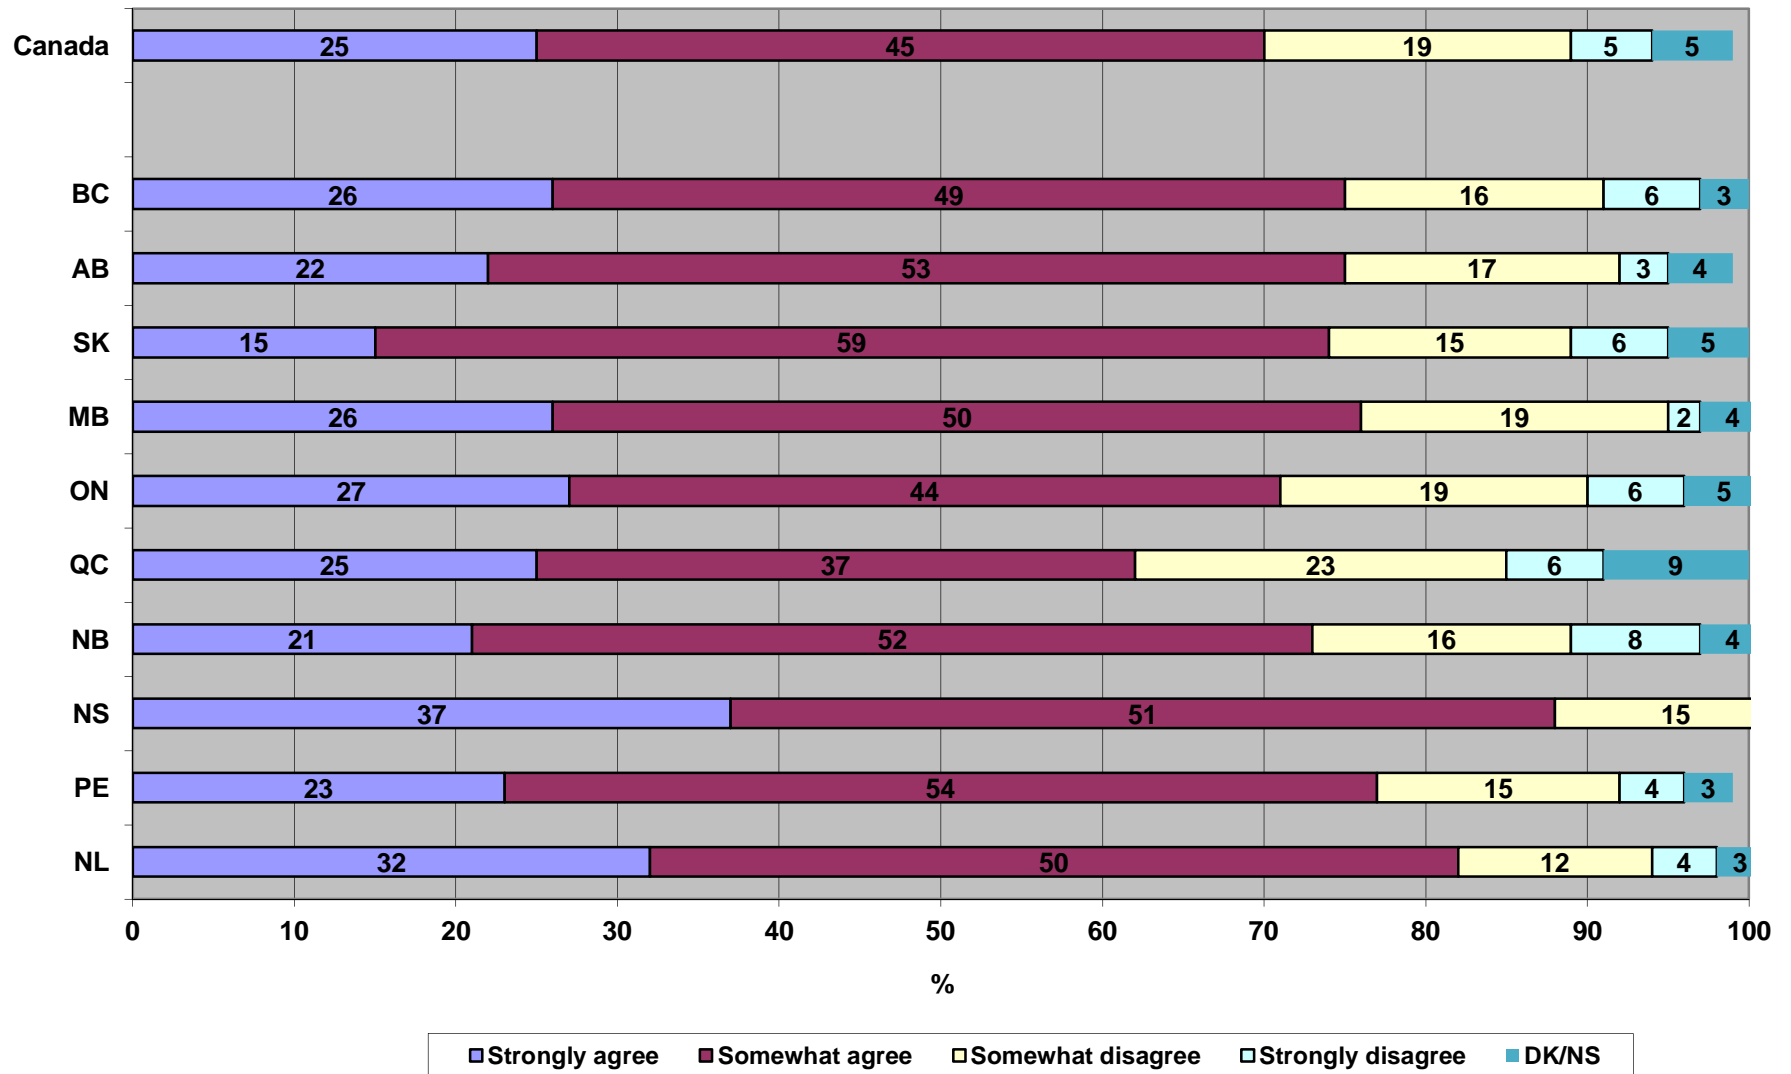

Running a business is a good way to raise money that charities aren't able to get through donations and grants

When a charity runs a business, a significant worry is that money could get lost on the business instead of being used to help Canadians

Should charities have to pay taxes on business income if the income is used to support their cause?

