A NOTE ABOUT CHARTS

The charts that follow provide graphic depictions of some of the results of Talking About Charities 2008 – a public-opinion poll commissioned by The Muttart Foundation and conducted by Ipsos-Reid.

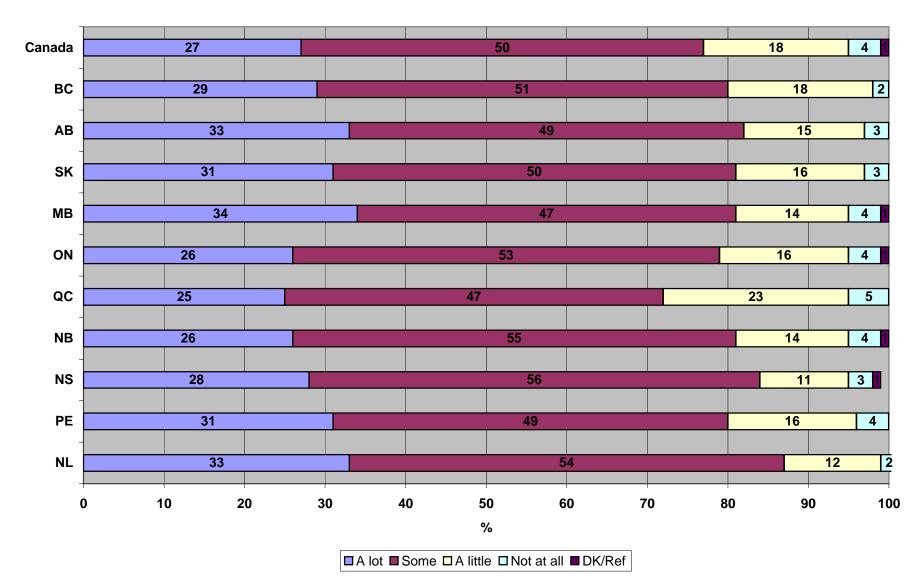

Across Canada, 3,863 telephone interviews were conducted. An overall sample of this size is considered statistically accurate within $\pm 1.6\%$, nineteen times out of twenty. The level of accuracy is less for provincial samples. The following table shows the number of interviews conducted in each province and the level of statistical accuracy for each province.

Province	Interviews conducted	Statistical accuracy (19 times out of 20)
British Columbia	500	$\pm 4.4\%$
Alberta	401	$\pm 4.9\%$
Saskatchewan	301	$\pm 5.7\%$
Manitoba	301	$\pm 5.7\%$
Ontario	751	±3.6%
Quebec	605	$\pm 4.0\%$
New Brunswick	300	$\pm 5.7\%$
Nova Scotia	300	±5.7%
Prince Edward Island	201	±6.9%
Newfoundland & Labrador	203	±6.9%
Canada	3,863	±1.6%

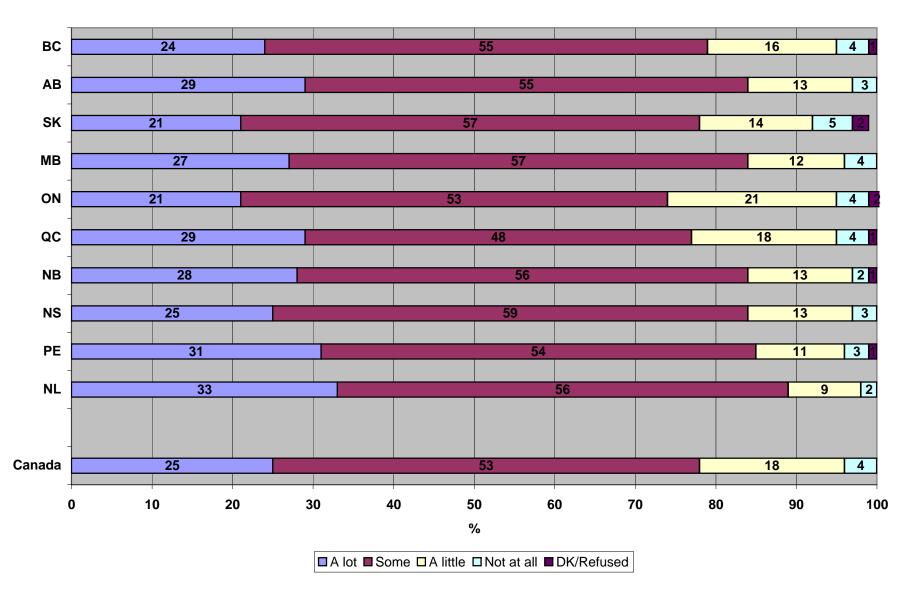

The titles on the charts do not reflect the exact wording of the question. To see those questions and to obtain detailed information about methodology, or results, visit The Muttart Foundation website at www.muttart.org. Detailed cross-tabulations are also available on the website. By special arrangement, the complete dataset will be made available to researchers.

Results for questions may not add up to 100% because of rounding errors.

Copyright in Talking About Charities 2008 and these charts belongs to The Muttart Foundation. Permission is granted to charities and not-for-profit organizations to make full use of this material, provided credit is given and copyright is noted. Any other use requires the prior permission of the copyright holder.

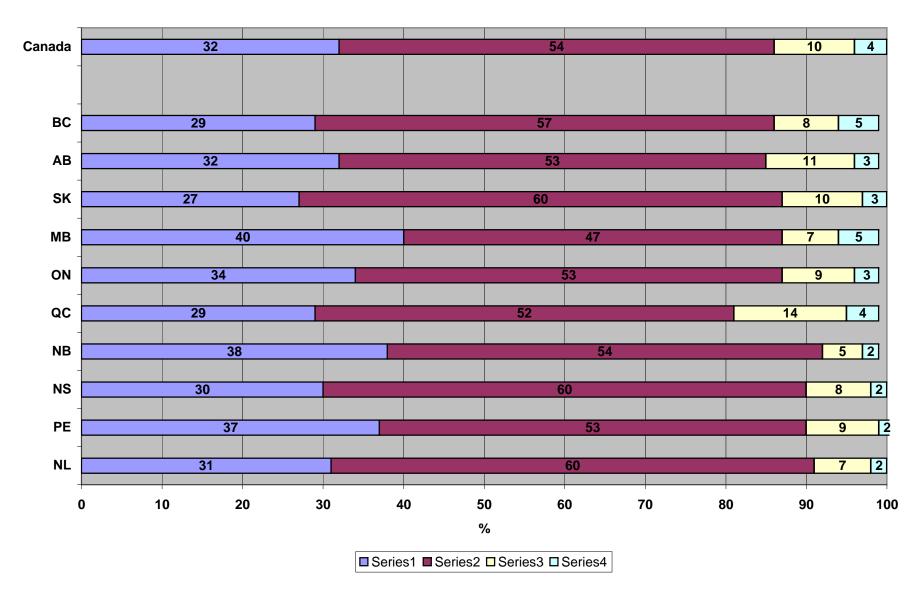

Trust in charities by province

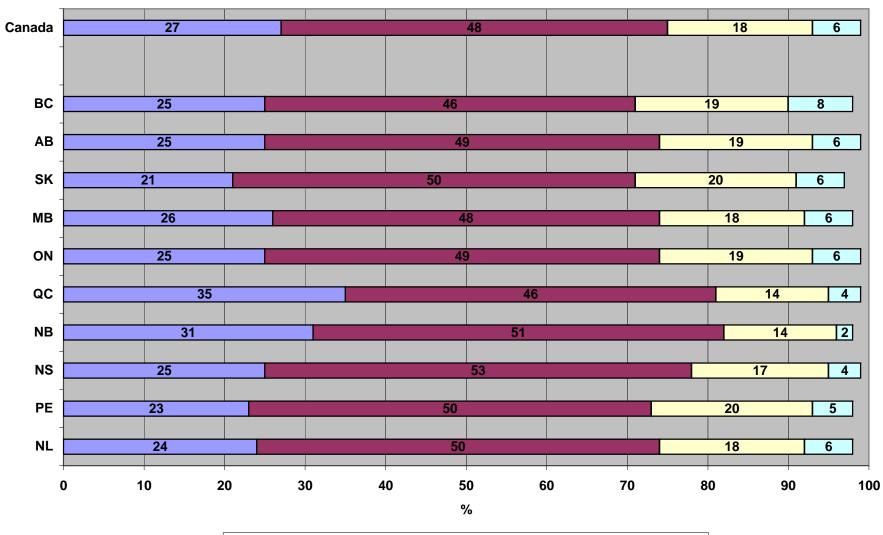

Trust in charity leaders by province

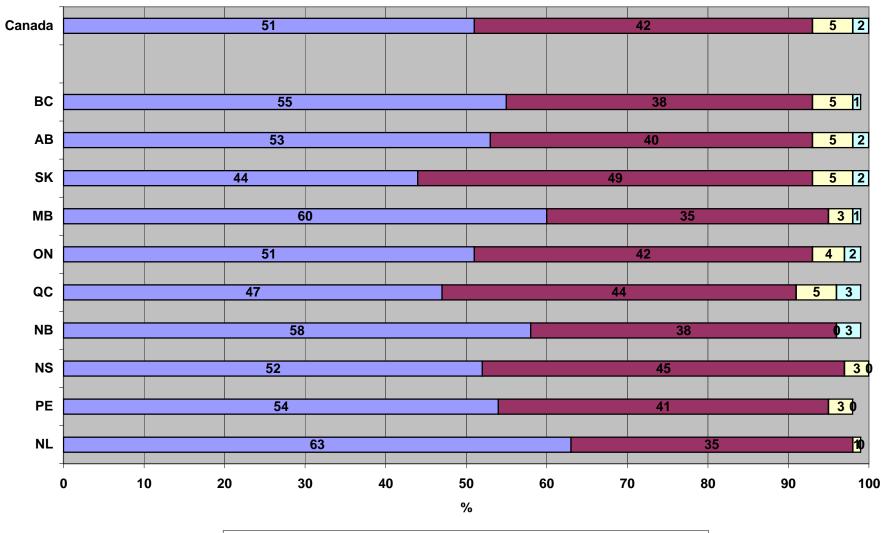

Charities should be expected to deliver defunded programs

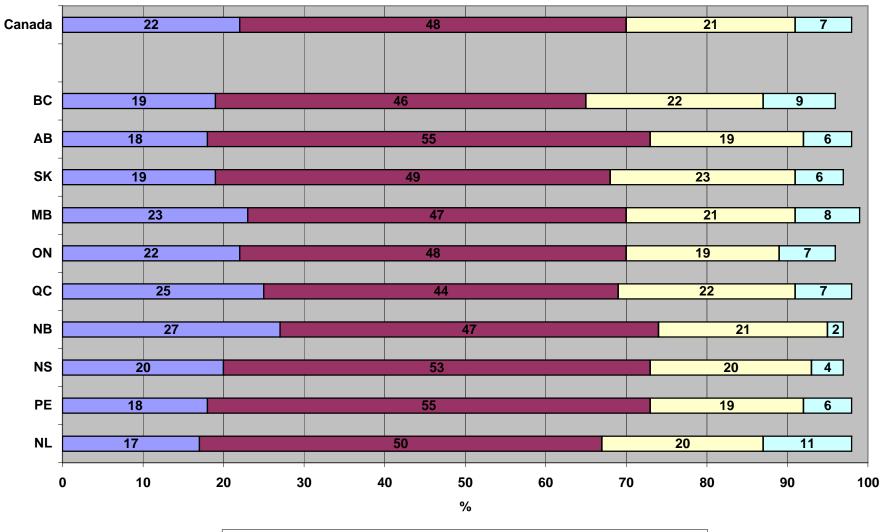

Charities generally improve our quality of life

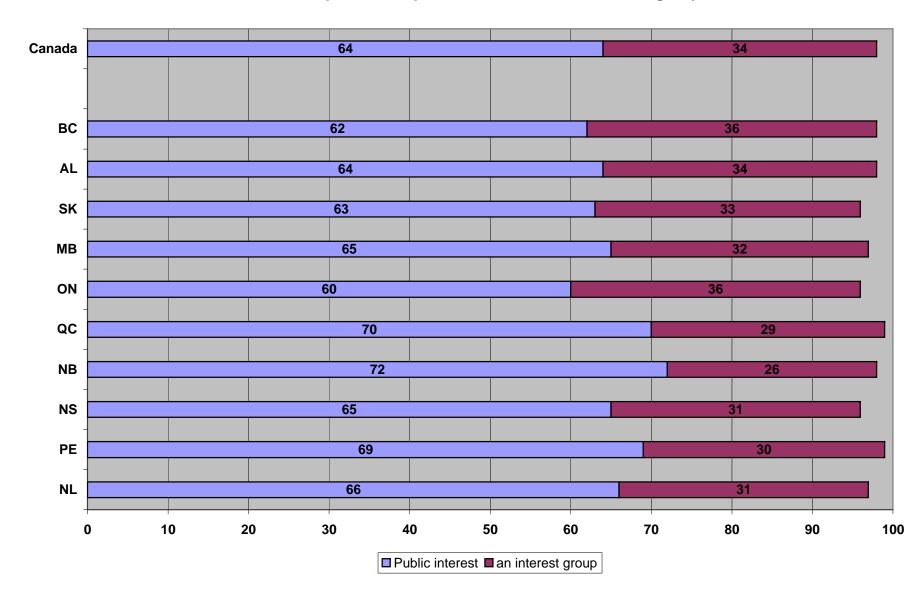

Charities are better than government at understanding the needs of Canadians

Charities are important to Canadians

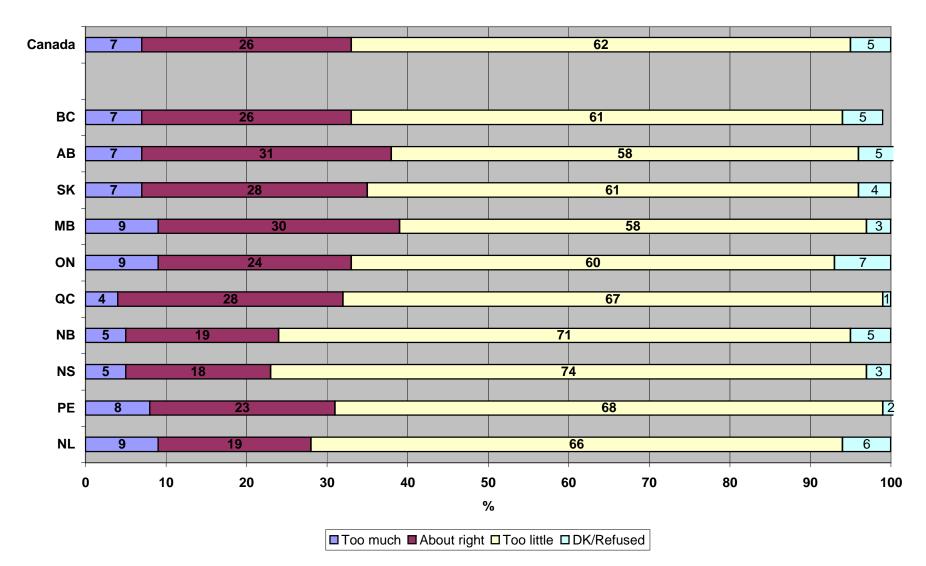

Charities are better than government at meeting the needs of Canadians

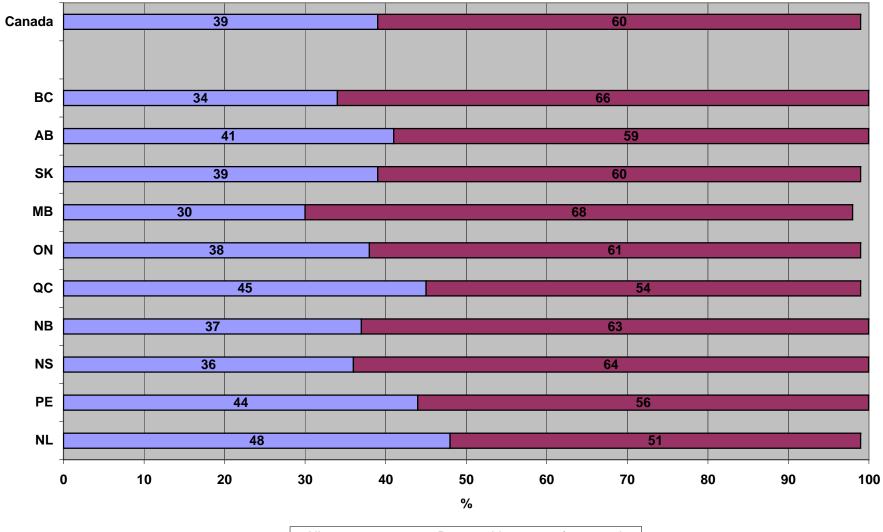

Do charities speak in the public interest or as an interest group?

Do charities have too much, about the right amount or too little money to meet their objectives?

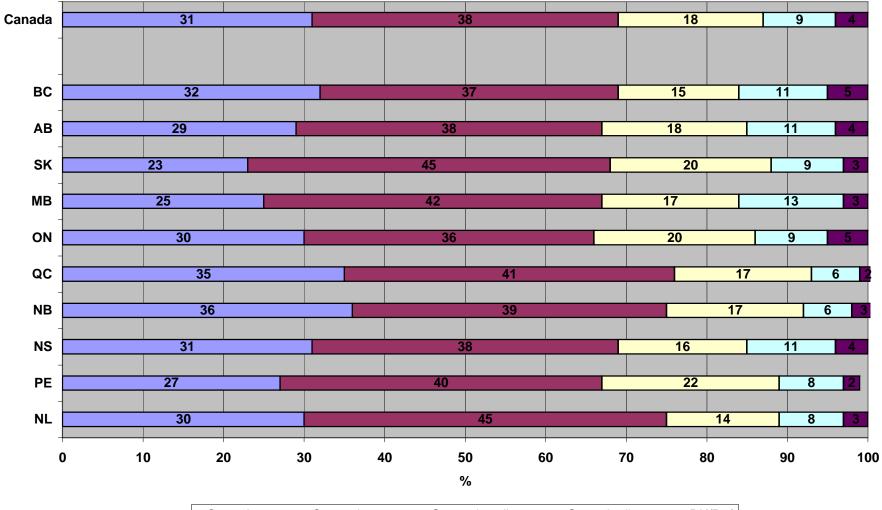

Expected use of donations

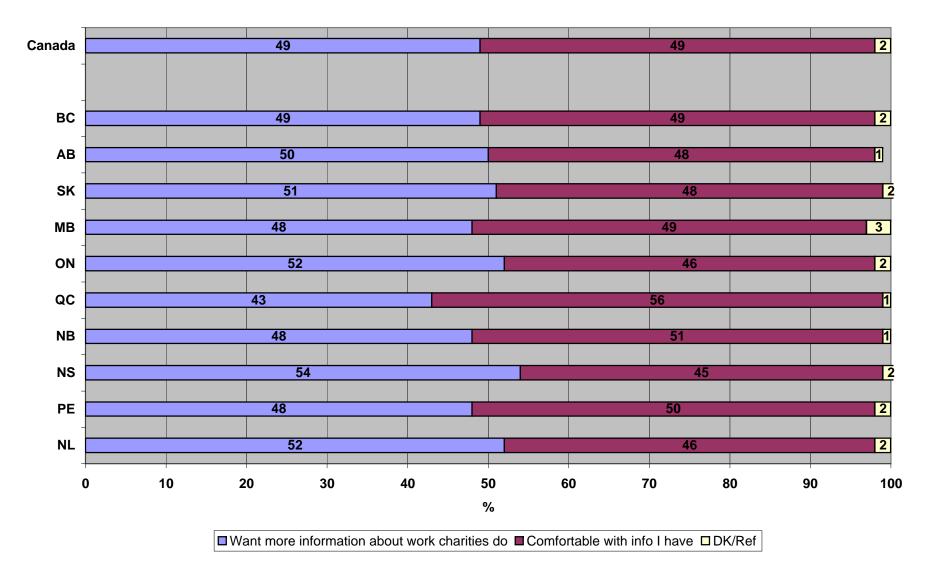

■ All money to cause ■ Reasonable amount for operating

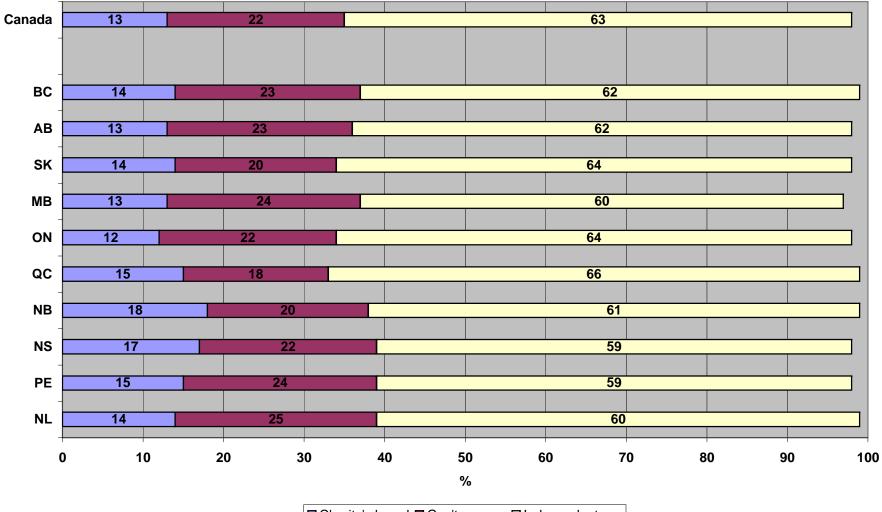

Advocacy laws should be changed to permit charities to advocate more freely for their causes

Thinking of your decisions about charitable donations, do you want more information about the work charities do, or are you comfortable with the amount of information you have

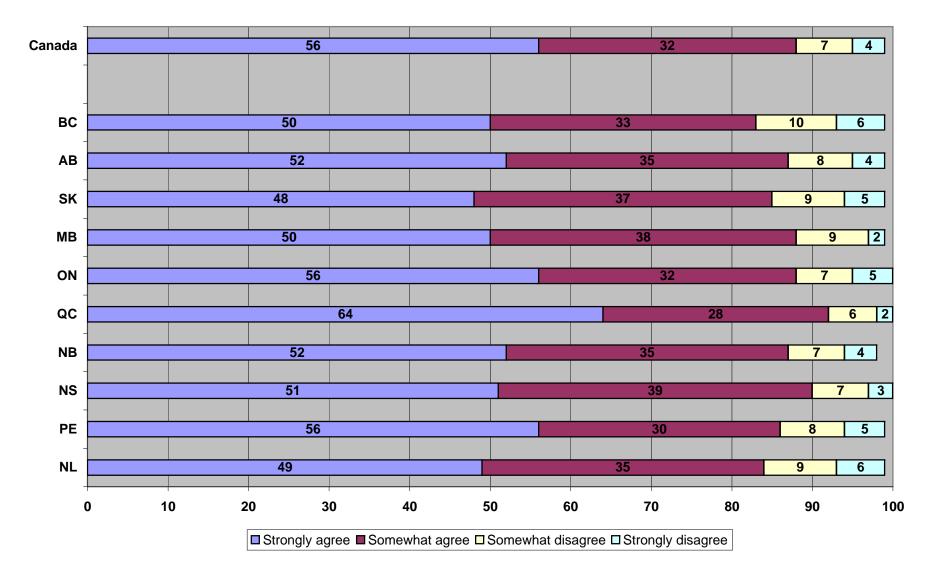

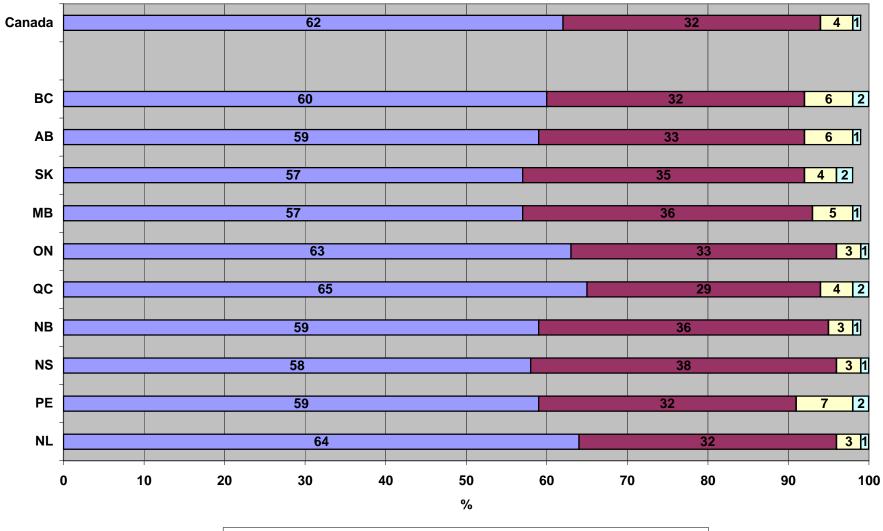

Which should be responsible for watching over the activities of charities: the charity's board of directors, a government agency or an independent organization?

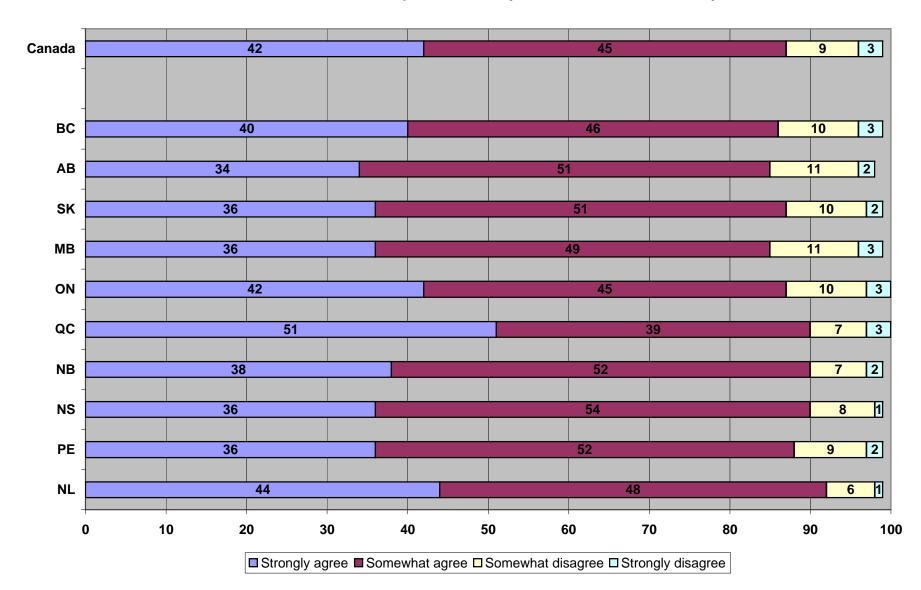

□ Charity's board ■ Gov't agency □ Independent org

More attention should be paid to the amount of money charities spend on hiring professionals to do their fundraising

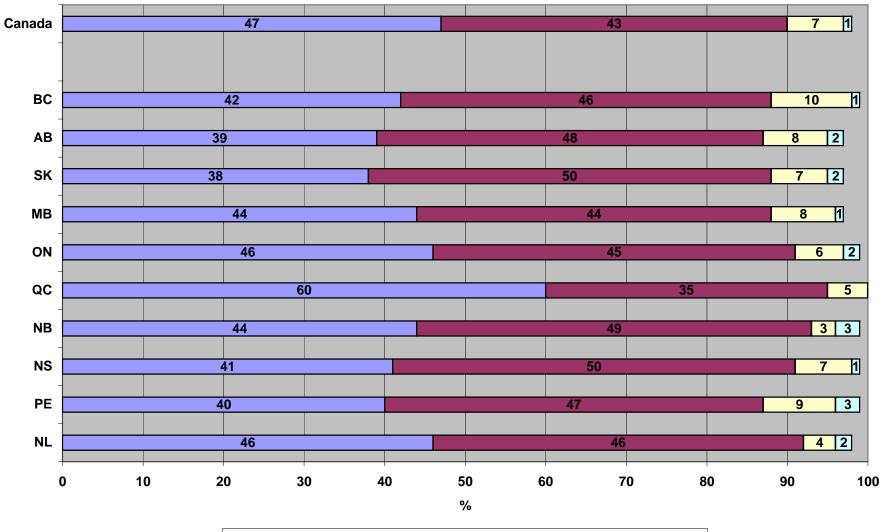

More attention should be paid to the way charities spend their money

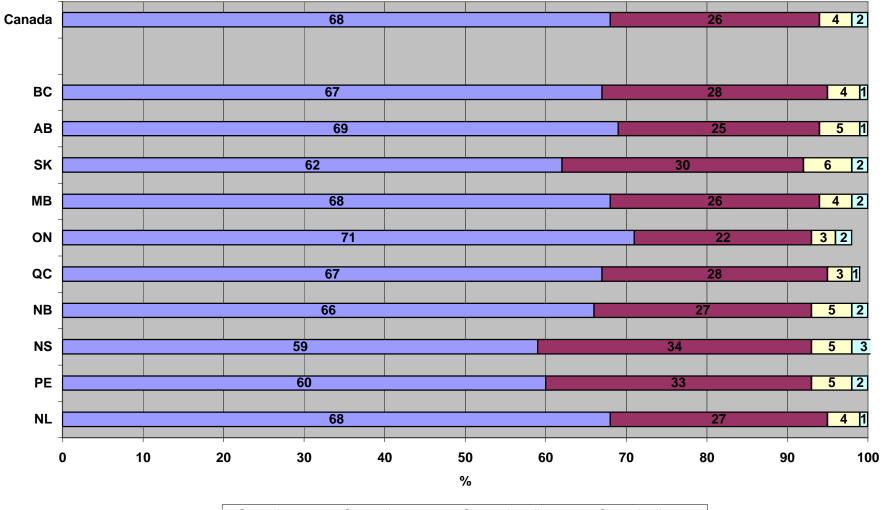

More attention should be paid to the way that charities raise money

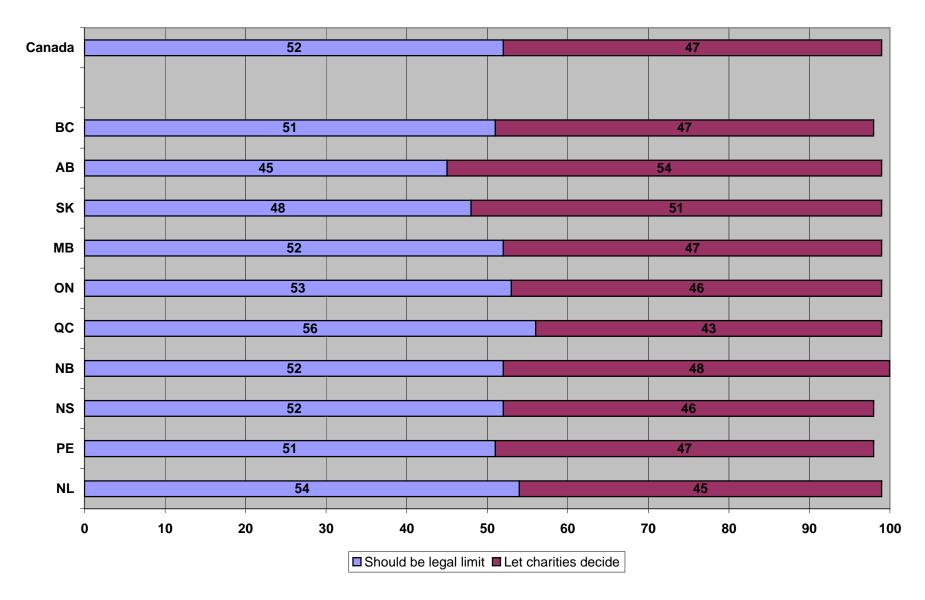

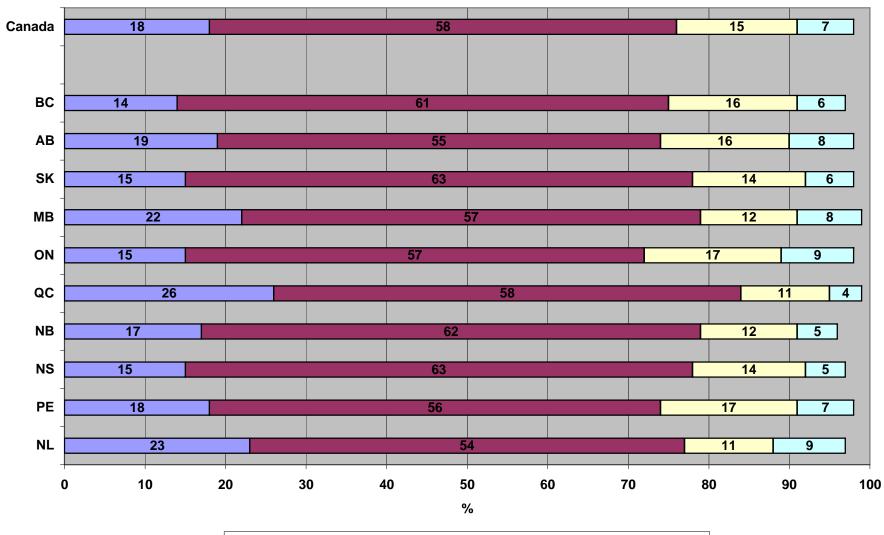

More attenton should be paid to the amount of money charities spend on program activities

On each fundraising request, charities should be required to disclose how donors' contributions are spent?

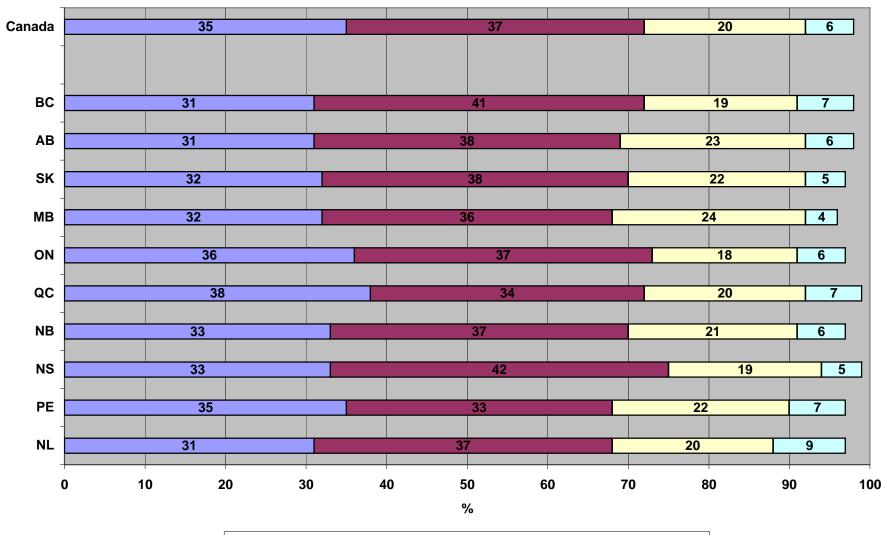

Limit on fundraising costs

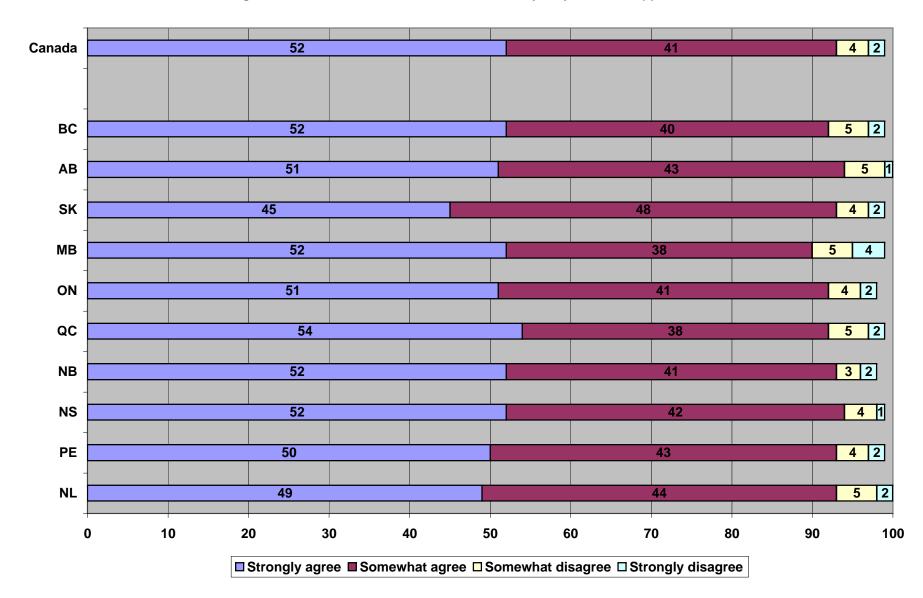

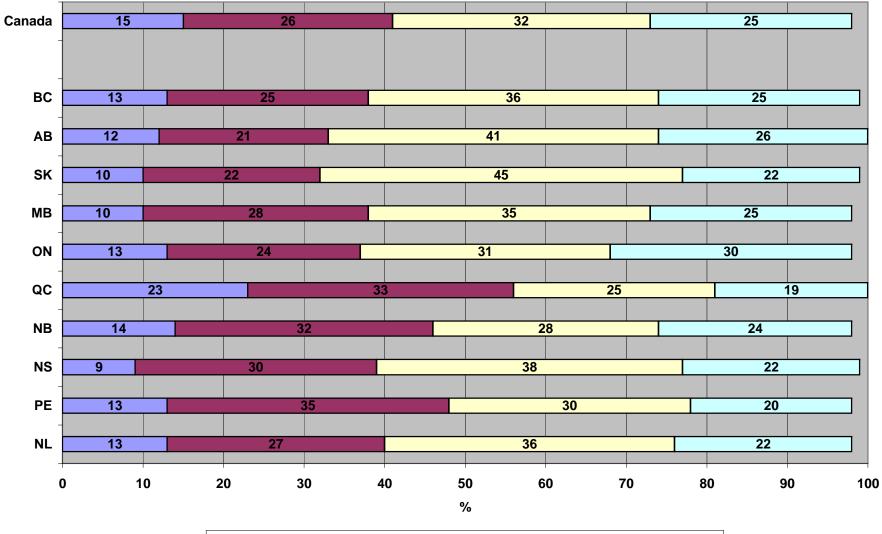

Charities are generally honest about the way they use donations

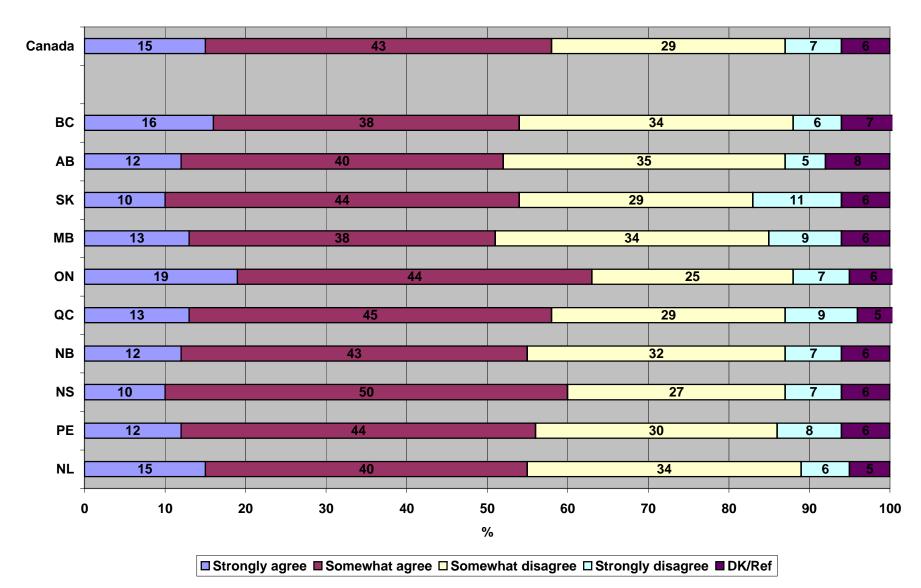

Too many charities are trying to get donations for the same cause

It takes significant effort for charities to raise the money they need to support their cause

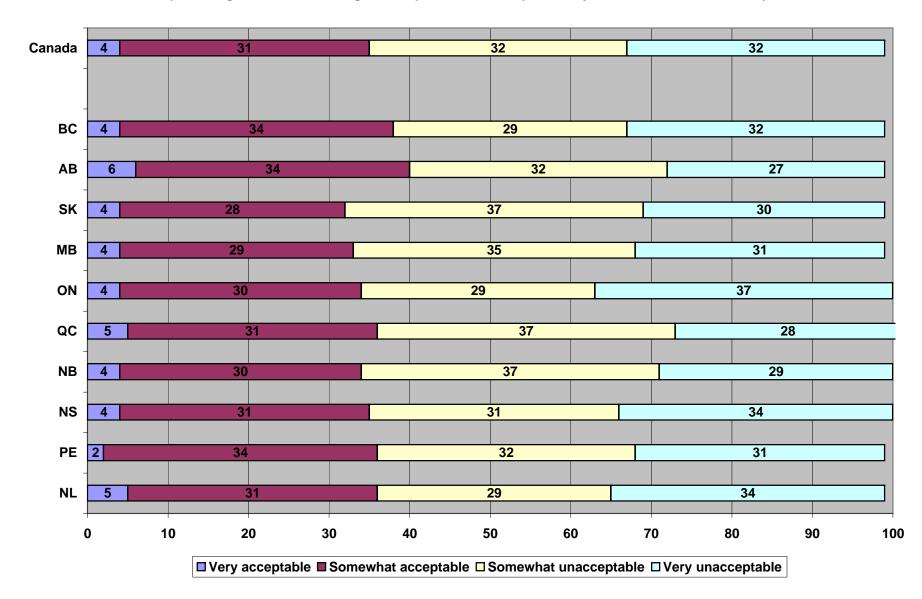

Charities only ask for money when they really need it

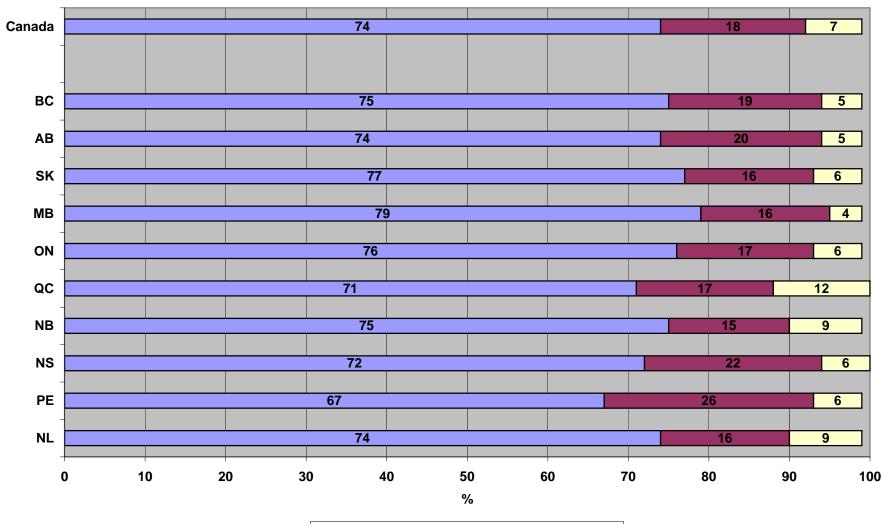

Charities spend too much money on fundraising

Talking About Charities 2008

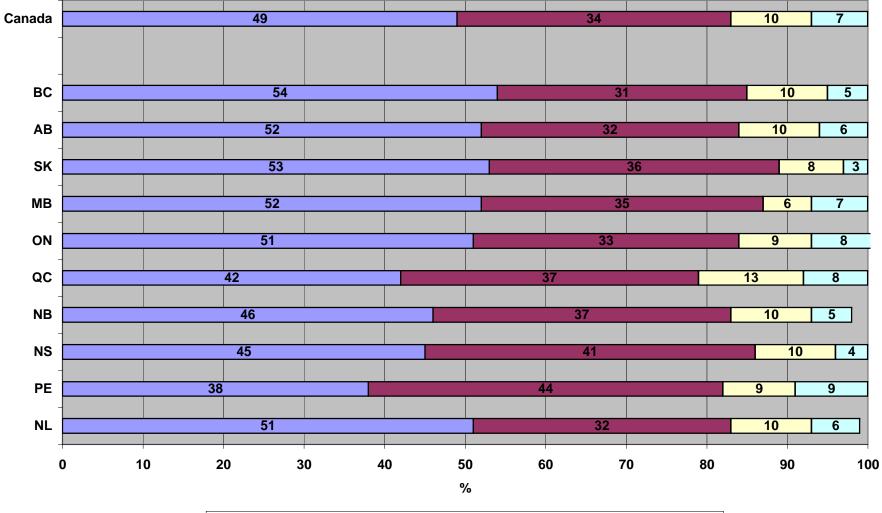

Is percentage-based fundraising an acceptable or unacceptable way for charities to raise money?

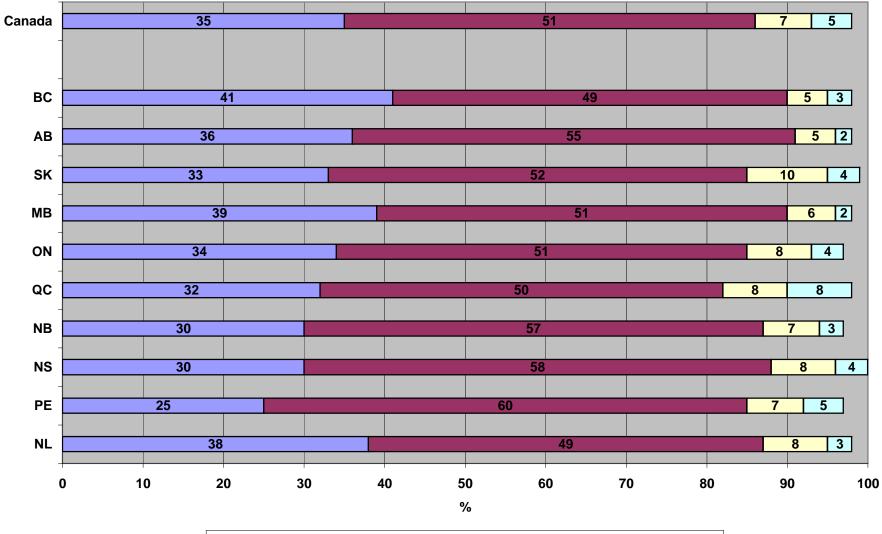

Should individuals/organizations hired to make fundraising requests be required to indicate if they are receiving a percentage of donations raised?

■ All of the time ■ Only when asked ■ Not at all

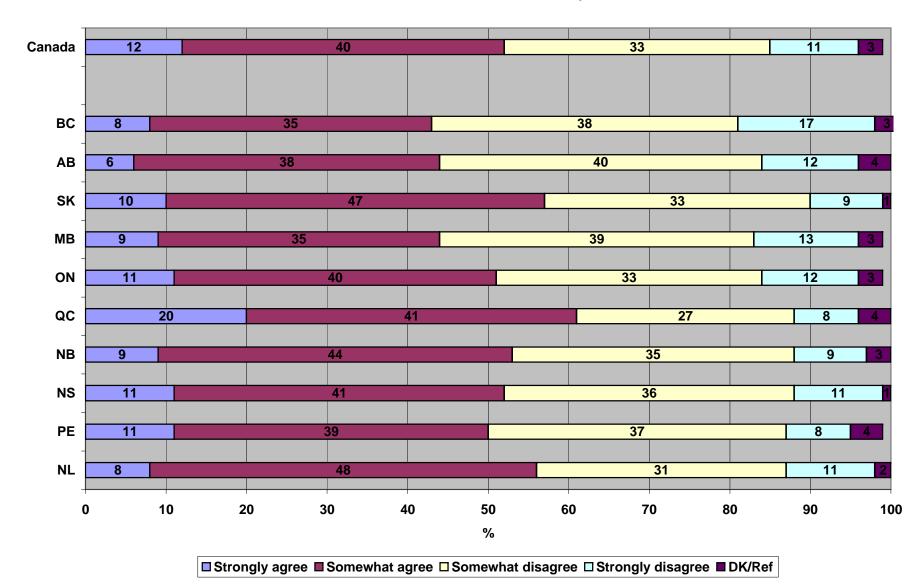

Charities should be able to earn money through any type of business activity they want as long as the proceeds go to their cause

Running a business is a good way to raise money that charities aren't able to get through donations and grants

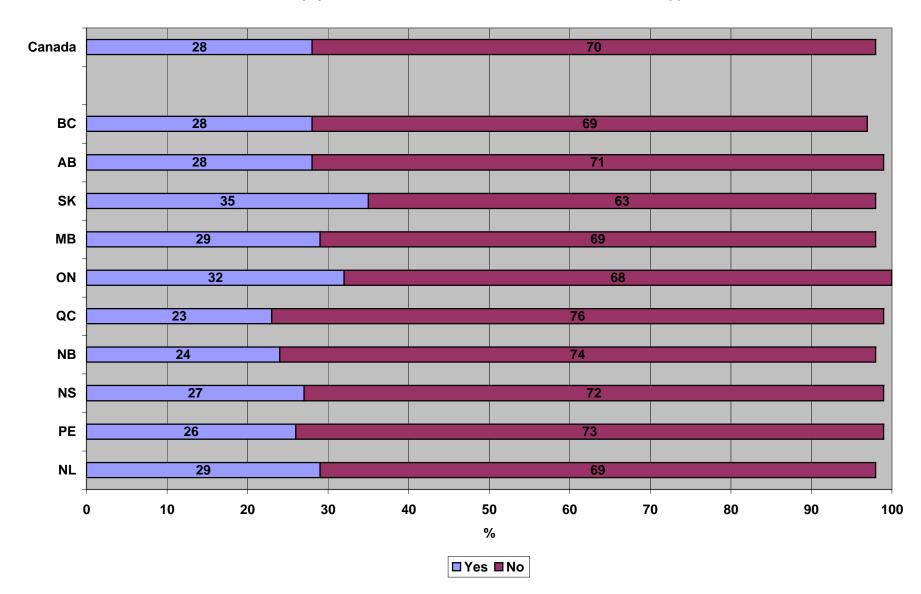

Canada BC AB SK MB ON QC NB NS PE NL %

When a charity runs a business, a significant worry is that money could get lost on the business instead of being used to help Canadians

When charities run businesses, it takes too much time away from their core cause

Talking About Charities 2008

Should charities have to pay taxes on business income if the income is used to support their cause?